Class Cancellation Policy

WEATHER-RELATED: Should inclement weather force us to cancel classes, a cancellation notice will be posted on our website no later than 8:00 a.m. Cancellations will also be televised on Channel 2. We will NOT call or send emails regarding weather-related cancellations.

NON-WEATHER-RELATED: On rare occasions, we are forced to cancel classes for non-weather-related circumstances. Should this occur, we will post a notice on our website and emails will be sent to enrolled members. For this reason, it is EXTREMELY IMPORTANT for all students to provide us with an up-to-date email address and to check your email on a regular basis.

Fee Structure
Courses are individually priced. Fees are listed on the Schedule-at-a-Glance and in the course descriptions.

Gift Certificates
Give the gift of learning! Gift certificates make great presents for birthdays, holidays, or other special events. Visit our website or call our office at (615) 343-1130 for more information.

Guest Policy
OLLI students are welcome to bring a single guest one time during the term ONLY IF prior approval has been granted. To request pre-approval, call our office at (615) 343-1130. We reserve the right to refuse unapproved guests.

Name Badges
A name badge for the current term will be sent in your course confirmation packet before the beginning of classes. Wearing the current term’s name badge is mandatory and Classroom Assistants will be enforcing this policy. Please make sure your name badge is visible when entering class.

Parking
Parking directions for each venue will be available on our website. When a course location has limited parking, OLLI will provide a shuttle for our members to shuttle them from a parking area to the course location. When shuttles are available, it will be notated with a shuttling icon on the Schedule-at-a-Glance and in the course description.

Referral Contest
Tell your friends about OLLI! Each term, the three members with the most referrals will be awarded two free classes ($80 value). New OLLI members should list any referral sources on their registration form.

Refund Policy
If OLLI member cancels 14 or more days prior to the first day of the term, 100% refund will be provided, minus $5 processing fee or full amount will be applied as account credit.

Scholarship Program
OLLI is pleased to provide financial assistance for members who may be otherwise unable to take part in our OLLI community. Please visit our website for additional information.

African American Trailblazers in the Shadow

This course will highlight little-known African American trailblazers in the fields of sports and entertainment. Beginning with the early part of the 20th century, the course will examine the lives of important, pioneering trailblazers, both men and women, whose contributions were impactful, but whose histories are virtually unknown. If you are a fan of film and cinema, or if you are a sports buff, then this course will be an enlightening and engaging one for you! It will examine the lives and the exploits of these pioneers of stage, screen, and athletic field, chronicling their exemplary but little-known lives. Finally, the theme of the course is an extension of the scholarly work of Dobson, whose most recent intellectual endeavors have focused on African American individuals who have been “rendered invisible” by historical neglect and ignorance.

Creative Writing Workshop

Flannery O’Connor wrote that writing was the only place she could lose herself. This course is for those interested in learning about crafting fiction and creative nonfiction, whether you’re already working on a project or want to write your first story. We’ll lose ourselves in the process…and that dream state in which stories take us to places we didn’t know we wanted to go. Through your own work, models by published writers, workshops with your classmates, instructor feedback, and notes-on-craft from texts such as Janet Burroway’s Writing Fiction: A Guide to Narrative Craft, Robert Olen Butler’s From Where You Dream, and Philip Gerard’s Creative Nonfiction, we’ll grow as a community of writers.

This class is limited to 14 participants who have not previously been enrolled in Kate Myers Hanson’s Creative Writing Workshop. Registration will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

INSTRUCTOR: Kate Myers Hanson, MFA (Iowa Writers’ Workshop), Former Professor and Editor, Passages North, Northern Michigan University

DATES: Mondays, January 15, 22, 29; February 5, 12, 19, 26; March 5, 12, 19, 26; April 2

TIME: 1:30–3:30 p.m.

LOCATION: Cathedral of the Incarnation, 2015 West End Avenue

FEE: $150

Dying Well or Badly: Ethical Explorations for the Inevitable Human Journey

Most of us have a lot invested not simply in when we die, but how. Sigmund Freud said that every creature wants to die in its own way. What are the meanings attached to our exit, and how can we prepare both ourselves and our families for a death we want, or at least a death that does not demean or diminish us? Churchill brings observations and questions from over forty years as a professor of bioethics and a clinical ethics consultant.

INSTRUCTOR: Larry Churchill, Professor of Medical Ethics, Emeritus, Vanderbilt University Medical Center

DATES: Wednesdays, January 17, 24, 31; February 7, 14, 21

TIME: 11:00 a.m.–12:15 p.m.

LOCATION: The Commons Center, Vanderbilt University, 1231 18th Avenue South

FEE: $40
Intellectual Sampler
This course will offer a sampling of concepts from various disciplines to excite our minds. Each class session will be delivered by a different person noted in their fields. There are many extraordinary speakers in the Nashville community and this lecture series will give us a chance to showcase six of them!

Media in the Age of Fake News
Enormous leaps in technology have radically changed the media landscape in recent years and the current state of American politics has changed it again. How are reasonable people with an interest in public affairs supposed to sort through the onslaught of information, misinformation, and outright falsehoods coming at them at warp speed in 2018? What exactly is fake news, and how can anyone tell an important story that you need to pay attention to from news that just doesn’t matter? Using real-world examples, we’ll explore the debate over fake news, the judgment calls that news professionals must make every day, and the difference between great and not-so-great journalism. Come prepared to discuss and think about your own media preferences and to engage in a robust discussion about news in the 21st century.

INSTRUCTOR: Scott Stroud, News Editor, Associated Press
DATES: Tuesdays, January 16, 23, 30; February 6, 13, 20
TIME: 9:30–10:45 a.m.
LOCATION: The Temple, 5015 Harding Pike
FEE: $40
Meister Eckhart (1260–1328) was a medieval Christian mystic whose wisdom powerfully appeals to seekers seven centuries after his death. In the modern era, Eckhart’s writings have struck a chord with thinkers as diverse as Heidegger, Merton, Sartre, John Paul II, and the current Dalai Lama. He is the inspiration for the bestselling New Age author Eckhart Tolle’s pen name, and his quotes have become an online sensation. Today a variety of Christians, as well as many Zen Buddhists, Sufi Muslims, Jewish Cabbalists, and various spiritual seekers, all claim Eckhart as their own. Meister Eckhart preached a personal, internal path to God at a time when the Church could not have been more hierarchical and ritualistic. Then and now, Eckhart’s revolutionary method of direct access to ultimate reality offers a profoundly subjective approach that is at once intuitive and pragmatic, philosophical yet nonrational, and, above all, universally accessible. The teachings of this “dangerous mystic” challenge the very nature of religion, yet the man himself never directly challenged the Church. This course will examine the life, teachings, and times of Meister Eckhart, as well as his relevance to the modern world.
Music, Place, and Southern Culture

The American South, as a geographical and cultural space, informs musical composition through a dialogue among place, performer, historian, media executive, and listener. The South, through musical instrumentation and techniques that are connected directly to the landscape, can be heard in musical sound, but what the listener is hearing and perceiving as the “South” is also a combination of sonic references to the landscape and the landscape’s romanticized perception, presentation, and commodification. Understanding the close relationship between the landscape and soundscape of the American South illuminates the appeal and influence of these genres within American culture: this music is of the land, of the people, and directly connected to a region and its unique cultural identity. By examining Southern musical forms, such as the blues, country, mariachi, gospel, zydeco, and jazz, this class will explore both the roots of American music and the South as performatve space for both musicians and the collective American identity.

INSTRUCTOR: Robert W. Fry, Senior Lecturer in Music History and Literature, Blair School of Music, Vanderbilt University

DATES: Mondays, January 15, 22, 29; February 5, 12, 19
TIME: 9:30–11:30 a.m.
LOCATION: St. George’s Episcopal Church, 4715 Harding Pike
FEE: $40
Follow the behind-the-scenes development of the Nashville premiere of Mockingbird at Nashville Children’s Theatre, with Executive Artistic Director Ernie Nolan, an internationally recognized artist in theatre for young audiences. Through readings, workshops, discussions, and rehearsal visits, students will gain insight into how a piece of young adult literature becomes a living, breathing performance. Participants will explore script analysis, dramaturgical techniques, play writing exercises, acting/directing theories, and set design methodology. After sitting in on the rehearsal process, the class will culminate in seeing the opening night of the production. Students will have the opportunity to purchase tickets for the performances on March 1 at 6:30 p.m. or March 3 at 2:00 p.m. at a discounted price.
OLLI at the Shakespeare Festival

Shakespeare’s most quoted play, Hamlet, is an exploration of the power of conscience and morality in times of deepest strife as this troubled young man shares his dilemma of either living with his father’s murderer or committing murder himself. The Nashville Shakespeare Festival begins their 30th anniversary season with a full professional production of Shakespeare’s great tragedy, Hamlet, presented in the beautiful, intimate Troutt Theater on the Belmont University campus. Two preparatory lectures will be offered on January 22 and 24, by director and editor Denice Hicks, Nashville Shakespeare Festival’s executive artistic director, and by Shakespeare scholar Marcia McDonald, professor of English at Belmont University and chair of the board for the Nashville Shakespeare Festival. The third session will be a matinee performance of Hamlet on January 26, followed by question-and-answer session with the cast and director. The cast includes some favorite Nashville veteran actors including Brian Russell and Shawn Knight, newcomers Chelsea Bell and Melinda Paul, and introducing Sam Ashdown, as Hamlet. This production is set in a modern world with no technological gadgets. People still read books, talk face to face, and fence for exercise and entertainment.

An original score composed and played live by Rollie Mains and Jack Kingsley will enhance the immediate experience of the play and underscore the emotional turmoil that fuels the action. Please join us for this enriching examination of one of the most beloved plays of all time, the Nashville Shakespeare Festival’s Hamlet.

Osher Steel Drum Band – ADVANCED

If you have a long history of musical experience or have participated in the Beginning Osher Steel Band for several sessions, this class is for you. A level up from the Beginning Osher Steel Band, this class moves at a fast pace and focuses on learning the different styles of music that can be played on pan. Latin, jazz, calypso, reggae, rock, and even show tunes are all offered in this class. There is a strong emphasis on proper technique and learning the subtle nuances behind playing the steel pan.

The class is highly music oriented and the participants will learn several songs each session, working towards a final recording that you can share with family and friends. Students will be placed according to their preference and the availability of the desired instrument. The Beginning Osher Steel Band class is a required prerequisite unless instructor permission is granted through a short audition. Limited to 12

INSTRUCTOR: Alli Puglisi, Director, Osher Advanced Steel Drum Band

DATES: Sundays, January 14, 21, 28; February 4, 11, 18, 25

TIME: 11:00 a.m.–12:30 p.m.

LOCATION: Blair School of Music, Vanderbilt University, 2400 Blakemore Avenue

FEE: $100

Osher Steel Drum Band – BEGINNER

Take a weekly musical “Cruise to the Islands” by joining the Osher Steel Drum Band. No musical experience is needed to join this very hands-on class. If you enjoy island music like Harry Belafonte, Jimmy Buffett, Bob Marley, calypso and reggae, this class is for you! The amazing history and construction of the steel drums will be presented through mini-lectures sprinkled throughout the classes. Listening and video examples of calypso music as well as discussions of Trinidad culture past and present will give you a taste of the Caribbean and an understanding of how the steel band art form developed. The instruments are made up of melody, upper harmony, lower harmony, and bass steel drums (much like a choir). Students will be placed according to their desire to learn a particular instrument and their individual strengths. Limited to 13

INSTRUCTOR: Mat Britain, Director, Osher Beginner Steel Drum Band

DATES: Sundays, January 14, 21, 28; February 4, 11, 18, 25

TIME: 1:00–2:30 p.m.

LOCATION: Blair School of Music, Vanderbilt University, 2400 Blakemore Avenue

FEE: $100
Strangers in a Home Land: Asian American Literature and the Technologies of Alienation

American culture stands at the intersection of diverse cultural traditions and ethnicities. Among the many nodes that constellation this colorful landscape, members of certain communities who bear social markers that stand apart from the perceived mainstream are labeled “minority,” and are often represented in ways that frame their presence as alien—strangers in their own home land. Whether it be outright discrimination, unsavory stereotypes, or their satiric appropriations that seemingly subvert but also insidiously reinforce deeply ingrained prejudices, mechanisms of alienation permeate our society on countless fronts. Situating Asian American literature in this broader context of minority discourse, with particular focus on how recent technological advances affect our understanding of identity, this class invites participants to question accepted metrics of normalcy and investigate their modes of delivery. The class will collectively explore questions such as the following: could the use of racial, ethnic, and cultural stereotypes be justified when framed as critical commentary? How are we to demarcate the thin line between appropriation and inordinate reproduction? What happens when “otherness” as concept becomes translated (in other words, technologized) across mediums such as from written text to visual media, and how may we understand the gaps and misalignments that constitute this process? How does technology, in communicating indexes of otherness or as a source of power in the age of global capital, serve as a double-edged sword in addressing the issues of alienation when specifically applied to the Asian context?

INSTRUCTOR: Haerin Shin, Assistant Professor of English, with affiliations with Asian Studies and Cinema and Media Arts, Vanderbilt University

DATES: Tuesdays, January 16, 23, 30; February 6, 13, 20

TIME: 11:00 a.m.–12:15 p.m.

LOCATION: The Temple, 5015 Harding Pike

FEE: $40
Tracing Your Roots

In this course, we will take a journey through the many resources now available to discover where your ancestors came from, whether you have yet to start a family tree or wish to expand your family history. Did your grandparents emigrate from Europe and enter the U.S. through Ellis Island? Did your ancestors come over on the Mayflower? Can you trace your roots back to someone famous? Are you stuck at Grandpa and have no other information? We will dive deeply into the many records available online including census, Ellis Island immigration, wills and land transactions, family bibles, cemeteries, military service, newspapers, yearbooks, and much more. We will discuss the valuable records still held in country courthouses that are not yet available online. Using my personal journey and the many strange and wonderful stories I have collected as a guide, we will uncover mysteries possibly hidden in your family.

INSTRUCTOR: Virginia Shepherd, Professor, Department of Teaching and Learning, and Director, Center for Science Outreach, Vanderbilt University

DATES: Fridays, January 19, 26; February 2, 9, 16 and 23

TIME: 11:00 a.m.–12:15 p.m.

Mat Britain
Mat Britain has pursued his love of percussion from the plains of Kansas to the island of Trinidad. He has traveled numerous times to Trinidad and performed with the Amoco/BP Renegades Steel Band at the prestigious Panorama Festival, most recently for Panorama 2013. Living in Nashville, Tennessee, he directs the Vanderbilt University Steel Drum Band program and leads his professional steel band Deep Grooves. Britain is indeed an All-American percussionist with a global perspective that permeates his grooves, style, and musicianship.

Larry Churchill
Prior to Vanderbilt, Churchill was professor and chair, Department of Social Medicine, at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he won an Award for Excellence in the teaching of medical students in the pre-clinical years. Churchill has published widely in several areas of medical ethics, including research with human subjects, end-of-life decision-making, and social justice and the ethics of U.S. health policy. His major works include a 1987 book Rationing Health Care in America (University of Notre Dame Press), a 1994 book Self-Interest and Universal Health Care (Harvard University Press), selected as a Choice Magazine Outstanding Academic Book, Ethical Dimensions of Health Policy (Oxford University Press) in 2002, and the widely used three-volume Social Medicine Reader (Duke University Press, 2005). Churchill’s work in ethics and health policy was the basis for his election to the Institute of Medicine, National Academy of Sciences, in 1991, and his selection as a Fellow of the Hastings Center in 2000. His most recent books are Healers: Extraordinary Clinicians at Work and What Patients Teach: The Everyday Ethics of Health Care, both from Oxford University Press.

Frank Dobson, Jr.
Frank Dobson, Jr., is associate dean of students, social justice and identity, at Vanderbilt University. Dobson, who has published two novels—The Race Is Not Given and Rendered Invisible: Stories of Blacks and Whites, Love and Death—has also published scholarly work on Black literature and culture, particularly film. Most recently, he has published articles on the filmmaker Spike Lee and also on the life of Woody Strode. He is married to his best friend, Dee.

Robert W. Fry
Robert W. Fry is senior lecturer in music history and literature at Vanderbilt University’s Blair School of Music where he teaches courses in global music, jazz, blues, music in the American South, and music tourism. His current research focuses on music tourism and the role of fan culture in the production of a musical place, which he writes about in his recently published book, Performing Nashville: Music Tourism and Country Music’s Main Street, part of Palgrave Macmillan’s Leisure Studies in a Global Era series (2017).
Kate Myers Hanson
Kate Myers Hanson earned an MFA from the Iowa Writers’ Workshop and is a former professor and editor of the literary magazine, Passages North, at Northern Michigan University. She is the author of Narrow Beams, a short story collection (Carnegie Mellon Press). Her short stories and short memoir have often appeared in literary magazines: Chattahoochee Review, Florida Review, North American Review, Prairie Schooner, Shenandoah, South Carolina Review, William and Mary Review and elsewhere. She is currently working on a second collection, Tug of War, and has completed a memoir, There’s A Child Living in This House.

Joel Harrington
Joel Harrington is a historian of Europe, specializing in the Reformation and early modern Germany, with research interests in various aspects of social history. Projects currently underway include a study of the late medieval mystic Meister Eckhart and a comparison of the early modern prosecution of infanticide and witchcraft. He has lectured widely in North America and Europe and he has resided as a visiting fellow at the American Academy in Berlin, Herzog August Bibliothek (Wolfenbüttel), Institut für Geschichte der Medizin (Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg), and Clare College (Cambridge). Harrington has taught a variety of graduate and undergraduate courses at Vanderbilt since his arrival in 1989, including the history of Christian traditions, Reformation Europe, religion and the occult in early modern Europe, and early modern social history. From 2004 to 2011 he served as Vanderbilt’s first senior international officer (associate provost for global strategy), a full-time administrative position, and before that, from 2000 to 2004, he was director of the Center for European Studies.

Haerin Shin
Haerin Shin is an assistant professor of English, with affiliations with Asian Studies and Cinema and Media Arts at Vanderbilt University. She received her Ph.D. in comparative literature (U.S.A., Korea, and Japan) from Stanford University in 2013. Shin’s research focuses on the relationship between technology and ontology, digital objects in the cultural domain, and issues of race and ethnicity. Shin has published articles on topics including posthuman spirituality (Symposium), technOrientalism (Dis-Orienting Planets), and cyberculture (Journal of Korean Studies, K–pop) and is currently editing Telos journal’s special issue on Korea (2018) while completing her first monograph The Technology of Presence: Being and Reality in the Age of Cyberculture.

Alli Puglisi
Alli Puglisi graduated from Vanderbilt University’s Blair School of Music in 2013 with a music performance degree with a special focus on the steel pan. While at Blair, she was selected to travel to China where she taught a weeklong music camp as part of a musical collaboration between the countries. Originally from Mundelein, Illinois, Puglisi now considers Nashville home where she freelances in various musical and educational settings including the Deep Grooves Steel Band. She arranges music for and is the assistant director of the Vanderbilt Steel Band Program and is the newly appointed director of the Osher Advanced Steel Band.
Virginia Shepherd

Virginia Shepherd received her Ph.D. in biochemistry from the University of Iowa. She joined the faculty in the School of Medicine at Vanderbilt in 1988. She spent most of her career as a cell biologist at Vanderbilt and at the VA in Nashville, researching such topics as HIV and tuberculosis. She has taught a variety of science courses for undergraduates, and graduate and professional students, as well as a previous Osher class (Nobel Prize Winners in Science). In 2015, she moved her appointment to Peabody College where she is currently a research professor of education. She has spent more than 20 years designing and implementing programs that connect scientists to K-12 classrooms, and in 2000 became the director of the Center for Science Outreach at Vanderbilt. Several of the programs that she has initiated have now been in operation for many years, including the School for Science and Math (11 years), the Scientist in the Classroom Partnership (18 years), and the Interdisciplinary Science and Research program (seven years). Her primary interest in her “free” time is genealogical research. She began this work in the 1980s with her family, and has continued to expand her family tree as well as working on projects for friends. She works through the online Ancestry program, and currently has more than 2,500 ancestors in her family tree.

Scott Stroud

Scott Stroud is news editor for the Associated Press, supervising wire-service coverage in Tennessee, Kentucky, and West Virginia for the global news cooperative. A native of Arkansas who grew up in Michigan, he has covered the coal industry, education, the environment, and politics in a 30-year journalism career. He’s been a columnist, a projects reporter, and a political editor at newspapers in Tennessee, Texas, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, and Arkansas.

Carol Ziegler

Ziegler is an assistant professor of nursing in the Vanderbilt University School of Nursing Family Nurse Practitioner Program, and affiliated faculty with the Vanderbilt Institute for Global Health. Since 2007, she has practiced as an FNP at the Meharry Family Clinic and serves as an instructor for Meharry Medical College. Her current scholarly work focuses on 1) the role and integration of traditional healers in Western Kenya’s health care environment, and 2) the role of primary care providers in facilitating community adaptation to climate stress and aligning human adaptation and development strategies with carbon mitigation policy.
