Today's Learning Goals

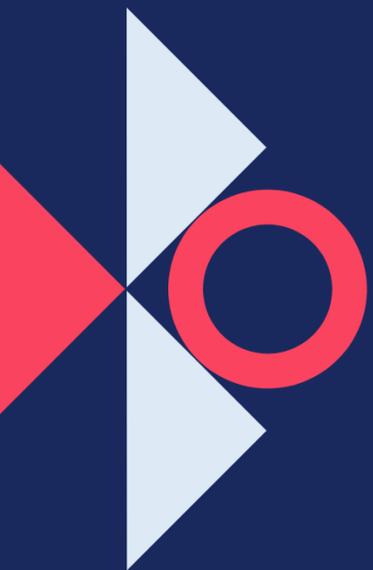

- Recognize how our biases play a role in the spread of misinformation.
- Apply fact-checking techniques to become more savvy information consumers.

Agenda

- How our biases play a role in the spread of misinformation
- Tips for fact-checking
- Q&A and optional homework.

A Few Definitions

Misinformation

Information that is inaccurate, misleading, or explicitly false.

Misperception

personal beliefs that are inconsistent with the best publicly available evidence, such as scientific or statistical evidence or the conclusions of experts.

Rumors

Unverified information statements that circulate among people

Misinformation and Emotions

What feelings do you typically associate with the spread of misinformation?

Overconfidence Effect

Your overconfidence is your weakness.

A hand holding a green pen is writing on a whiteboard. The whiteboard is covered with various colorful sticky notes and diagrams. One sticky note is blue and says "Like!" with a thumbs-up icon. Another is yellow and shows a diagram of three boxes connected by lines. There are also pink, orange, and green sticky notes with different diagrams and text. The background is slightly blurred, showing a person in a red shirt and a whiteboard with a diagram.

A FEW TIPS:

Read widely across the spectrum

Look at respected publications on multiple sides

Where is there agreement?
Disagreement?

Where has thinking evolved?

What is the prevailing school of thought?

Ask Yourself

- What's missing?
- Who's benefiting?
- Who's getting hurt?

OPTIONAL Homework

Continue to keep a media mindfulness journal. Note changes to your media consumption habits, awareness of misinformation, privacy practices, etc.

Things you might consider:

- How often are you running across questionable claims?
- Are there certain types of new stories you keep coming across?
- Do you notice any habits or emotions that cause you to engage with news in different ways?

OPTIONAL Homework

Fact check a claim you run across on social media, a website, or even the local news. Come prepared on April 1 to talk about the following:

- What claim did you check and why?
- What methods did you use to fact check?
- What did you discover?
